

A Little Adventure

The little sun woke up today,
And chased the sleepy clouds away.

A tiny bird began to sing,
While butterflies danced in a ring.

A happy tree waved leaf by leaf,
And gave the squirrels sweet relief.

The river giggled, bright and blue,
As silver fish came swimming through.

The children laughed and ran all day,
Inventing games and fun to play.

When stars appeared in skies above,
The moon wrapped Earth in gentle love.

So close your eyes and dream tonight,
Of magic days and starlit light.
